

Red General Links U.S. Peace Bid to Losing War Effort

PARIS (AP) — In a hard-line interview apparently linked to the Paris peace talks, North Vietnam's top military leader asserted today the United States is losing the war in Vietnam—and implied that is why it is seeking peace.

The interview with Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, Hanoi's defense minister, was published in the French Communist party newspaper L'Humanite, and U.S. experts here for the talks had no doubt the choice of Paris for release of the statement was deliberate.

Giap staked out a tough, confident position.

Diplomats said it could indicate an unyielding attitude by North Vietnamese negotiators in the talks—or could cover shifting, more flexible, tactics.

One of Hanoi's chief political leaders, Le Duc Tho, a member of the nine-man Politburo of the Vietnamese Communist party, arrived here Monday as "special counselor" to Ambassador Xuan Thuy, the negotiator.

Statements from Hanoi had indicated that at some point Thuy might be prepared to go into broad political questions of a peace settlement if the United States would acknowledge a responsibility to stop the rest of the bombing of the North.

Thuy and Ambassador W. Averell Harriman will meet again Wednesday, after a four-day recess following their sixth session on Friday.

What seems to be developing is a move by North Vietnam to get around its own limitation that until the United States cease bombing and all other acts "unconditionally and definitely" halts all attacks on North Vietnam, no other subject can be discussed between Harriman and Thuy.

Le Duc Tho, a member of the nine-man Communist party politburo in Hanoi and hence an influential leader, arrived Monday on a flight which brought him by way of Moscow. Editorial comment on the Paris talks in Hanoi and Moscow, coincident with his trip, struck a new note. This was that the United States would have to accept responsibility for stopping the bombing before other issues could be talked about.

This suggested that Hanoi, with Moscow's support, might be interested in moving the Paris conference into a second phase.

Thuy seemed to bear this out. He spoke specifically about the possibility of getting an early start on discussion of "other problems"—obviously broad political questions which get more fully into issues of peacemaking.

Thuy charged that although the Paris talks are three weeks old, the United States is still stalling on North Vietnam's demand that it "unconditionally cease bombing and all other acts of war" against the North.

He accused the United States of employing "dilatatory means" and said this is preventing progress. But he added:

"I am persuaded that if the American side renounces its obstinate attitude, the conversations on other problems of interest to the two sides can begin without delay as our government said in its declaration of May 3, 1968."

This appeared to leave the way open for some formula by which the United States could declare its willingness in principle to end all attacks on the North without actually doing so until conditions change. President Johnson has made clear he will not end all attacks until North Vietnam reduces infiltration into the South, and Hanoi has said it would not take any reciprocal action to get the attacks stopped.

Viet Cong Gunners Renew Heavy Shelling of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong gunners shelled Saigon for the second night in a row tonight, hurling 20 mortar rounds at the capital's southern sector in two attacks.

A U.S. spokesman said 10 82mm mortar rounds landed near the Cho-Quan power station, but the station was not damaged. A few minutes later about 20 more rounds hit the 4th Precinct. There was no immediate word on casualties.

The mortar attack followed by less than 24 hours a barrage of 40 rockets in the heaviest enemy shelling so far of the embattled capital district. The Viet Cong, meanwhile, sent fresh troops into Saigon and U.S. sources conceded that the enemy "certainly could keep the fighting going for quite a while."

New fighting broke out only a mile and a half north of President Nguyen Van Thieu's Independence Palace, in the heart of Saigon, while government forces were still battling other enemy troops for the fifth day in the western part of the capital, and in the northeastern suburb of Gia Dinh, 2½ miles from the city's center.

Military spokesmen reported that South Vietnamese marines and rangers, spearheaded by a column of tanks, mounted a massive attack on North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in Gia Dinh this afternoon. The spokesmen said the government troops overran Viet Cong positions and drove the enemy back a mile.

In the western part of the capital, the Chinese section called Cholon, government forces were still trying to root out rocket-firing, sniping enemy troops holed up in a residential area three miles from the presidential palace. Intelligence sources had estimated 15 to 20 guerrillas were holed up, but a defector reported 200 enemy in the area.

U.S. sources said there were reports that five-man Viet Cong cells were infiltrating into the capital in civilian clothes. The reports said the cells were told to hide in "safe" houses as back-up forces.

Senior U.S. officers say the intensified pressure on Saigon is part of a plan to influence the Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam.

During the night the Saigon area was hit by some 40 enemy rockets between about 1:30 and 2:30 a.m. It was the biggest enemy bombardment of the war in the area, and as it began the city's sirens sounded for the first time to alert the 3 million inhabitants. But only 10 persons were reported injured and damage was comparatively minor.

Eighteen of the rockets landed around a company from the U.S. 9th Infantry Division five miles south of the center of Saigon, but no American casualties were reported.

As an indication of the serious view the Saigon government took of the situation in the capital, it today appointed a major general,

Nguyen Van Minh, to direct the defense of the capital military district. This had been one of the duties of the commander of the 3rd military corps area, which also includes the 11 provinces around Saigon, and he delegated day-to-day operations in the city to a colonel.

Elsewhere across the country, hard fighting was reported in four places:

—U.S. 9th Division infantrymen swooped into a Viet Cong rest camp and reported killing 187 enemy troops in fighting that raged through rice paddies in the fertile Mekong Delta 41 miles southwest of Saigon. U.S. casualties were put at 36 killed and more than 50 wounded.

—Between 70 and 100 North Vietnamese soldiers attacked units of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division during the night in the central highlands 14 miles northwest of Dak To. The enemy troops got to within 20 yards of the American perimeter and opened fire with small arms and grenades. The attack was repulsed, U.S. headquarters said, at a cost of three Americans killed and 23 wounded. A spokesman said a sweep of the area at dawn failed to turn up any enemy bodies, but numerous trails of blood were found, indicating a number of the attackers were killed or wounded.

—Fifty South Vietnamese soldiers and 10 U.S. advisers repelled a heavy mortar and ground attack by a larger force of North Vietnamese regulars at an outpost 22 miles northwest of Saigon. Military spokesmen said the defenders killed 48 of the attackers with the help of heavy air and artillery strikes. Allied casualties were not reported immediately.

—In the northern war zone, near Phu Bai, allied forces reported killing 23 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops.

Widening of Three Streets Approved by Council

The city council last night approved bids on widening of three streets, vacating of two streets and alleys, and changed the name of one.

A National Flag Week observance June 9-15 was approved, purchase of 40 parking meters authorized and the council heard a delegation seeking improvement of Sunset Addition. The two-hour session was the longest since Kendall Sikes became mayor in April of 1966.

All councilmen except Lee Shell were present.

Bids were approved for widening of Brannum street, Davis Boulevard and North street, and for improvement of Benton and Jaycee streets.

A petition for changing the name of Franklin avenue to Allen Boulevard, signed by all-property owners except one, was approved by voice but final action was deferred until legal steps are completed.

The cost of widening of the streets is Benton street, from Warner to East street, for curb and guttering, $1.99 per linear foot, awarded to Flaire Ferrell North street, from near Stoddard street to Frisco railroad tracks with 6 foot by 7 foot widening on north side only, awarded to Flaire Ferrell, $4,642.45; Davis street, widening seven feet on each side, from North Street to Dover street, to Flaire Ferrell, $3,278.70; Jaycee street, from Malone to Adams street, with hot mix asphalt and six inch soil cement base, awarded to W. S. McMullin, at $4.60 per foot; Brannum street, from Murray Lane to West Malone, with six foot widening on each side, awarded to W. S. McMullin, $11,000.00.

The resignation of Hank Switala as a member of the park board, was accepted. Bill Paylor was chosen to fill the vacancy. The council was asked to close Fletcher street. Action was deferred until it could be advertised.

Approval was given for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company to lay an underground conduit and manhole systems on projects adjacent to city parks.

A letter of appreciation was read from C. Clarence Scott for cooperation of the city in his business building and back lot improvement.

A letter was read from Mayor I. B. McNew Sr., of Morehouse, in appreciation of the firemen's response to a fire there.

The council approved a five percent beer license for Gerald A. Throgmorton, who is operating the former Daugherty's Tavern, owned by Bob Nowell.

Hurricane Abby Swings Inland Leaving 5 Missing, One Dead

PUNTA GORDA, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Abby moved onto this west coast Florida fishing village today and altered her diminishing winds and torrential rains across the state toward the nation's moonport on Cape Kennedy.

Behind her five persons were missing and a child was dead, a victim of Abby's flooding.

Flood and tornado warnings were in effect in parts of central and southern Florida.

Abby passed over Punta Gorda at latitude 27 north, longitude 82 west, or 100 miles south of Tampa. The storm harassed residents with gale winds and two-foot tides. There were no reports of injuries or extensive damage.

Forecasters Arnold Sugg at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said the storm would weaken as it moved north-northeast across the state.

At the moonport, heavy rain was reported. The Air Force and National Aeronautics and Space Administration ordered equipment vulnerable to gusty winds tied down.

Yugoslav Reds Impose Ban In Effort to Quell Revolt

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia's Communist government banned public demonstrations, meetings and parades in Belgrade today following two days of fierce fighting between rebellious students and police—the first spontaneous flare-up in the country in the years of Red rule since World War II.

Students retained control of the Belgrade University administration building, seized Monday, and about 30,000 attended orderly meetings at colleges scattered throughout the capital.

The ban by President Tito's government on public assembly, issued for the "protection of public order," appeared to have a double aim—to head off any new rioting while keeping the revolt from spreading to workers as it did in France.

An Interior Ministry statement said property damage from violence Sunday and Monday exceeded $200,000 and that some "irresponsible elements" involved in the demonstrations had placed explosives in a downtown travel agency.

The official injury count was 38, but appeared in fact to be substantially higher.

The university itself was ordered closed for seven days and policemen ringed its grounds. They made no effort to enter the student-held building, but checked the identification of those who went on campus.

The telephone lines to the building were cut, students said. About 2,000 had gathered earlier to hear a nonstop round of speeches from a balcony draped with a huge picture of Tito and such slogans as "Down with Red Bourgeoisie" and "The Press is Lying."

Informants said Communist party student leaders appeared to have regained control over the student rank and file by siding with their demands and joining protests against what they called police brutality.

They are expected to press for a halt to public demonstrations and place emphasis on talking grievances out with authorities.

Kennedy, McCarthy Face Final Showdown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California Democrats were making their choice today in the final presidential primary match between Eugene J. McCarthy and Robert F. Kennedy.

The last one was the big one for both contestants, with the victor virtually certain to emerge as the final challenger to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Generally sunny election day skies were forecast across the nation's most populous state. Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. PDT—10 p.m. CDT. A vast turnout was expected.

State officials predicted a turnout as high as 67 per cent of the registered voters.

There were 4,347,406

Democrats registered to vote and 3,197,815 Republicans.

Kennedy was the pollsters' favorite in the Democratic race, but a Los Angeles Times poll indicated that people who reported themselves undecided held the balance of decision.

A hefty turnout would benefit McCarthy, the Times poll reported.

On Monday night the National Broadcasting Co. reported that a poll conducted for the network by the Oliver Quayle Co. showed Kennedy getting 39 per cent of the vote to 30 per cent for McCarthy.

Thirteen per cent favored delegates headed by California Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch and 18 per cent were undecided. The poll was taken Sunday, the day after McCarthy and Kennedy met on television.

In the three-way race to take charge of the 174 nominating votes California will cast at the Democratic National Convention, there were delegate slates pledged to McCarthy and Kennedy, and an uncommitted entry headed by Lynch. Since write-in votes are not permitted, the Lynch slate presumably will get the votes of people who favor Humphrey.

The one certain victor, Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, running as a favorite son, unopposed in the GOP presidential balloting, and assured of control of California's 86 votes at that party's convention.

Kennedy and McCarthy were meeting in another contest, too, in South Dakota. Humphrey backers there are promoting votes for a slate pledged to President Johnson, who has said he will not run again. South Dakota's 26 convention votes will go to the victor.

A Senate contest in California was expected to pull out Republican voters. In that one, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel seeks renomination for a fourth term against the challenge of Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction.

The Kennedy-McCarthy contest, final round in a series which began in Indiana on May 7, reached an angry peak in Monday's windup round of campaigning. Kennedy accused McCarthy of desperation tactics;

Johnson Calls for Soviet Cooperation In Search for Peace

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson revisiting the site of his year-ago summit talks with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin, said today the road to peace in Vietnam will be slow and tough—but it would be less rocky if the United States and Russia "are willing to travel part way together."

Johnson, in remarks delivered in commencement exercises at Glassboro State College, made what amounted to an appeal for newer, closer American-Soviet cooperation. He said he wanted to move "from war to peace, from hostility to reconciliation, from stalemate to progress."

The President said in the preliminary Vietnam peace talks in Paris the United States so far has "met with little more than bellicose statements and evasions" from Hanoi's representatives.

This was part of his appeal to the Soviets, too, in enunciating his view of a major principle in the search for peace.

"The road there (in Hanoi) is far less rocky when the world's two greatest powers—the United States and the Soviet Union—are willing to travel part way together," the President said.

Johnson was unabashed in soliciting flatly the good will and help of Russia in seeking an end to the Vietnam fighting and leaving "this world a little more orderly than we found it."

The President told the 1,061 graduates that since his summit meeting with Kosygin at Hollybush, the home of the college president, cooperation between the two nations had reached new heights.

"Although old antagonisms

have not been erased," Johnson asserted, "we have proved that our two countries can behave as responsible members of the family of nations."

Johnson left little doubt that he'd welcome more of the same.

Suggesting new avenues of American-Soviet cooperation in studying the human environment and exploring the world's resources—from ocean floors to tropical rain forests—Johnson said, "It is by small threads... that we will weave a strong fabric of peace in the world."

The President flew from Washington in his Air Force jet, landing at Pennsylvania Air National Guard ramp at Philadelphia International Airport, where he climbed into a helicopter for the 30-mile ride to Glassboro.

The exercises were held outdoors for the crowd of about 7,000.

The President's helicopter landed on the athletic field nearby.

Johnson's decision to come to Glassboro had been rumored for the past few days, and he substituted on the program for New Jersey Gov. Richard Hughes.

Johnson said since he and the Soviet premier met here last June 23 and 25 to forge what was then called "the spirit of Hollybush," he believes that the "two great powers... have begun, however haltingly, to bridge the gulf that has separated them for a quarter of a century."

Johnson taking advantage of the anniversary for this major foreign policy address, acknowledged that peace isn't easy.

They were turned over to juvenile authorities.

McCarthy charged the Kennedy forces with running a "cheap" newspaper advertisement questioning his record on law enforcement.

Kennedy has talked of quitting the presidential race should he lose in California. He suffered his first setback to McCarthy one week ago in the Oregon presidential primary, after winning in Indiana and Nebraska.

McCarthy said he will stay in the nomination contest even if he loses in California.

He rejected Kennedy's suggestion that they join forces after the California contest so that one of them will have a chance to wrest the nomination from Humphrey, currently the leader in delegate strength.

just around the corner. He emphasized, "We will run into difficulties and painful setbacks" with the correct course of public policy often seeming unclear."

But, he said, the task ahead is to "seek answers not slogans to strive to tip the balance in the right direction."

The President said that Glassboro and its college campus "will always be associated with that goal and that great effort."

Johnson said that during the past year "the work of peace has been going on in many ways that do not make headlines... but as these issues touch on our relations with the Soviet Union they are important nonetheless."

He noted that work has been completed "on a treaty forbidding weapons in outer space; on an agreement to assist astronauts downed in either country; on a new consular treaty; on an agreement permitting Soviet planes to land in the United States and ours to land in Moscow."

"Just yesterday," Johnson added, "we began talks in Moscow about a renewal of our cultural exchange agreement with the Soviets."

"Every one of those steps is a step toward peace."

In discussing the current Paris talks with representatives of Hanoi, Johnson said that "as yet, the other side has had nothing of substance to say to those of us who seek a just peace in Asia."

Then he went on: "First: in response to our concrete proposals the other side has offered only propaganda."

"Second: Their representatives in Paris continue to deny a fact which the world knows to be true—the massive presence of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam."

"Finally, the North Vietnamese in Paris will say to us only 'stop the rest of your bombing' at a time when more North Vietnamese supplies and materials than ever before are flooding into South Vietnam."

We hope they have to serve every day of the 10 years.

They were truly human vultures.

When a sick man is over 70 years old, people say his age is against him.

One of the best things about people is that they prefer living to cringing.

A young writer, with the help of expert advertising -- much of it free -- has made a fortune from a book called "Unsafe at Any Speed."

As nearly everyone knows he refers to the modern automobile which he considers the creature of questionable advertising.

The writer could have more justifiably chosen boats, high-heel shoes, electricity, liquor, cigarettes, etc., etc., or an older form of transportation, the horse.

Man did not create the horse. Through breeding, the horse was made larger, faster, perhaps more intelligent, and more beautiful. So men who could afford it, forsook the oxen for the horse.

Yet, no vehicle created by man could compare to the horse as a threat to life and safety. Relatively, the horse has caused more back injuries, fractured skulls, broken bones, hernias, and deaths than the most vicious vehicle ever devised.

The horse has no kind of brake, no determinate steering system, no cushion, no safety belts, no guards from trees, ledges, or whatever it chooses to run against.

Knowing all of this, people still buy and ride horses. Similarly, advertising did not cause people to buy Thunderbirds, Corvettes, Continentals, and all types of convertibles in preference to modified army tanks.

Some things mean more than safety. People just prefer the beauty of a spirited horse to the safety of the donkey. Advertising describes and offers a choice; it can not change human nature.

BALKING THE BILLBOARD LOBBY

Because the Missouri Legislature has bowed repeatedly to the billboard lobby, many residents of this state no doubt assume that little has been accomplished elsewhere to comply with the Federal Highway Beautification Act of 1965. That is not the case, however. To date, 14 states -- plus Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia -- have signed agreements with the Federal Highway Administration to control signs. Several other states have passed legislation and 13 others have bills pending.

Last March the Kansas Legislature approved a billboard law which will take effect July 1. Regulations are now being developed and eventually they will be submitted to Washington for approval. Some critics of the Kansas law contend that it is too weak. But, unlike Missouri, Kansas now has a law on the books which will soon be submitted for federal approval. It is too early to predict the outcome.

So far, Vermont and Hawaii have gone further than Congress, which ruled against billboards within 660 feet of interstate and primary highways outside of commercial and industrial areas. Vermont, which acted last winter, will prohibit all off-premises advertising in rural areas. Present signs must be removed by January, 1970. The Vermont law will permit the owners of a restaurant, filling station or other highway business to have signs on their own property, but nowhere else. A limited number of directional signs will be permitted on state-owned "plazas," but how many will be strictly controlled.

In unhappy contrast, Missouri still permits any and all signs. Some of the most beautiful rural highways in this state have been converted into a jungle of billboards. We believe that the signs are self-defeating. Travelers leave home to enjoy the beauties of nature and the open countryside. If they want to look at billboards, these can be seen along most of the commercial streets in Missouri's cities and towns.

The public's concern has never been brought home to the lawmakers in Jefferson City, despite the fact that Missouri could lose millions of dollars in federal highway funds if it fails to comply. Other states have gotten the message and they have responded with action.

Missouri will have another chance in 1969 and we hope that the General Assembly will recognize what needs to be done. Missouri is one of the more beautiful states in America, but the scenery is losing out to the billboards.

It was on June 14, 1777, that the Continental Congress passed this resolution:

"Resolved, that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

No one knows who designed this flag, or who made the first one. William J. Canby said in 1870 that his grandmother, Betsy Ross, made the first one, but historians doubt it.

The Continental Congress left no record to show why it chose red, white and blue for the flag, but in 1782 the Congress of the Confederation chose these same colors for the newly designed Great Seal of the United States.

The resolution on the seal said red is for hardness and courage, white is for purity and innocence, and blue is for vigilance, perseverance, and justice.

And the flag itself?

"The Stars and Stripes stands for the land, the people, the government, and the ideals of the United States, no matter when or where it is displayed."

Fly it proudly.

FOR NOMINATION OF EDWARD L. DOWD

On the basis of his fine record as a public official and his progressive attitude on vital state problems, Edward L. Dowd deserves the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor of Missouri.

Mr. Dowd is the outstanding candidate among 10 seeking the nomination in the August primaries. Until recently he was little known beyond the St. Louis metropolitan area, but he has remedied this by widespread stumping throughout the state. He has been well received.

If high caliber public service is any measure of a candidate for office, and we think it is, Edward Dowd merits approval by Democratic voters.

He spent 10 years in the St. Louis Circuit Attorney's office, the last four as Circuit Attorney, a post to which he was elected in 1952. During his regime the annual average of felony convictions was doubled. His career in this office was vigorous and showed courage.

He was appointed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to head one of the best police boards the city has ever had, resigning last March to run for Lieutenant Governor. While he was president of the Police Board, the department beefed up its strength, held crime increases below the national average, and expanded a successful police-community relations program.

Mr. Dowd has revealed during his campaign speeches over the state a constructive attitude toward state policies and legislation.

He advocates increasing state aid for public schools to 50 per cent of costs, more financial help for the University of Missouri and junior colleges, additional state aid to mental health hospitals and more detoxification centers around Missouri.

He supports the $34 million capital building program the Governor will present to a special Assembly session next month, and proposes expansion of the police effort in community relations in all cities through the state.

Mr. Dowd's chief opponent for the nomination apparently is William S. Morris, Public Administrator of Kansas City. Mr. Morris is expected to get support from Alex Presta, former convict, and the shady North Side element in Kansas City, which has been politically linked in the past with the St. Louis Steamfitters Union. Mr. Dowd has neither received nor will accept campaign money from the steamfitters.

The office of Lieutenant Governor is often a stepping-stone to other major posts in Missouri or federal government. Its function can also be made influential in state administration. It is wise to select nominees in each party who can handle the job competently and with distinction.

For these reasons we believe Edward Dowd should be nominated. We indorse him fully confident in his ability.

California's State Senator George Miller, Jr., said: "After years of study and involvement in taxation problems, I know that taxation is only a choice among evils. Little is gained if attention is mainly focused on attempting to pass the burden to another level of government, be it federal or local. The only cure for tax rate increases is able administration. An elastic tax structure related by policy to healthy business growth is the only answer."

Motorists were urged by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, to be extra watchful for children now that schools have closed for summer vacation.

"The vacation months of June, July and August have been a tragic time for young pedestrians and bicyclists in the past," Hockaday stated. "For example, 11 pedestrians 14 years old or younger lost their lives in Missouri traffic accidents last year. There were also four bicyclists in this same age group killed during this period. I urge drivers to be extra alert for children during the warm vacation months ahead."

The Patrol Superintendent noted that since youngsters do not usually concern themselves with their own safety, drivers must do so for them. He said, "All the safety rules that children have been taught may be forgotten while they are absorbed in play. Drive slowly and expect the unexpected, especially in residential areas and places where children congregate."

Colonel Hockaday also stated that parents have the responsibility to give thought and concern to the summer playing habits of their small children. He pointed out that while teachers supervised their children's play for nine months, now the parents must make certain they play in areas away from heavy traffic.

"Thousands of children are looking forward to a happy and carefree summer vacation," Hockaday concluded. "Drivers and parents can help give them such a vacation by accepting their share of responsibility in the safety of these youngsters."

NEW YORK (AP) -- It is nice to know, where you're with another person, what sex that person is.

Men, for example, traditionally feel more free to be themselves, are more at ease, even speak in a different manner if they are in the company of other men. They are also usually more boisterous and less boyish.

Women, on the other hand, when in the company of women show just the opposite traits. They are more ill at ease, less free to be themselves, and in many cases profoundly less feminine and fun-worthy.

One of the increasing problems of civilization is how to tell one sex from the other. The passion for conformity appears to be gradually destroying many of the recognizable differences between the sexes.

Here are a few guidelines that help the interested bystander distinguish the hms from the hers:

If it likes, while swigging something straight from a paper cup, to stand in the backyard and brag about the barbecue sauce it has concocted, it is a man. If it would rather go to an indoor cocktail party and gab to know, where you're with another person, what sex that person is.

Does it punch you in the ribs while it tells a merry story? Has to be a buck. Does it place a soft but infinitely restraining hand upon your arm while it tell you its troubles? Has to be a doe. The one that says, "Let's have another one," can be safely described as male. The one that inquires, "Oh, do you really think I should?" is undoubtedly female.

Out to the incinerator to deliver the garbage with a grim air of resignation trudges the husband. Out to the incinerator with a burst of oratory, "This isn't the way it happens in the apartment next door after all SHE is married to a civilized man," walks a burdened wife.

Does it accept love as a bond and a mystery that must be taken for granted? That's the eternal lad. Must it be assured of love and does it demand that love's mystery be expressed in words, however lame and unhelpful, as well as in conduct, however eloquently mutual? That's the eternal lass.

logical contradictions. But there is no clear reason why we should, in fact, expect events to take this course.

In popular discussions of the present economic picture there is an increasing tendency to evoke the experience of the 1930's. Perhaps one reason for anticipating an inflation-catastrophe-deflation sequence arising from the present situation is the belief that this is the way things went in the late 1920's and early 1930's. One of the widely accepted interpretations of the deflationary disasters after 1929 is that they were an inescapable penance for the inflationary sins of the period just before. Having danced in the 1920's, we paid the piper in the 1930's and it's said this is the way things must always go.

The difficulty with that interpretation is that it is based on a myth. The 1920's were not characterized by the kind of inflation we have had in the 1960's. The 1920's were a period of well-balanced prosperity during which there was actually a slight downward trend in the price level.

All that this proves, of course, is that a naive "what goes up must come down" theory is not of much help in explaining or predicting major economic movements. It certainly does not prove that we are guaranteed unconditionally against appearance as you can. Well-kept inflation, deflation or any other antiques are considered kind of unpleasantness. Those who foresee some combination of these disasters may turn out to be right, but we wish that their pronouncements contained more analysis and less scare-talk. Perhaps we should be scared--this writer believes we should--but we would like to know precisely what and of what.

Recent statements on the crisis theme, including that of Chairman Martin, have identified federal fiscal policy as the chief source of present difficulties and the chief reason for concern about the future. In this we believe they are correct. But there is a danger that the most important problem of fiscal policy may be overlooked, while attention is concentrated on secondary questions.

All government spending imposes a burden, in one form or another, on the economy and on those who participate in it. There is simply no way of escaping this elementary fact. So as firm as the right of the PRIMARY question of fiscal policy is: how big will that burden be?

The secondary question of fiscal policy is: how will that total burden be allocated among our individual citizens? There are several options. Many different kinds of taxation can be used to assign the burden according to the intentions of Congress. Or deficit financing can be used, in which case the burden usually takes the form of inflation and is allocated rather haphazardly and inequitably. Or, when deficit financing is combined with a restrictive monetary action, the burden is likely to show up as a credit shortage which bears especially hard on such groups as home buyers and home builders.

The choice among these options has important consequences, both for individuals and for the economy generally. Our point is that these decisions as to how the burden of government spending will be allocated are less important than the decision as to how big that burden will be.

If you have to carry a load up a hill, it makes some difference to you whether you carry it on your back or on your shoulders. But it makes even more difference whether it weighs 50 pounds or 100 pounds.

Taxation is probably a better way than inflation of carrying the burden of increased government spending. A still better way of solving the problem is not to increase government spending at all.

ADVICE TO THE AGED

So much advice is given to young people, it seems fair that the older folk might be given to the older folk--in view of the fact that people are old so much longer than they are young.

1. Guard against sensitiveness. It is mostly an affliction of age.

2. Do not bewail the fact that you are old. If you were not old, you'd be dead.

3. Do as much for your antiques are considered beautiful.

4. Morals never change, but customs and habits do. Cheerfully scrap a bushel of your old customs to conform to the present, so long as it does not affect morals.

5. Remember you were once young.

6. No one is ever useless so long as he retains his mental vigor, though he may be physically handicapped. Try not to complain of physical ailments.

7. Learn to be self-sufficient. There may come a time you will be left all alone.

8. Don't live in the past. Memories are precious to you, but unless solicited, keep them to yourself. Laugh at your mistakes.

9. Believe and live your religion. An old person without faith is pathetic. There is no situation you and God cannot handle.

10. Be as cheerful as sunshine, as firm as the right of gravitation, and as willing to change, when convinced, as the weather.

H.L. Hunt Says

TIME TO SPEAK

Americans are extraordinarily time-conscious. The radio and television are constantly reminding us of the exact time of the day. Illuminated signs flash the time from city buildings and from billboards. A recorded announcement of the time can be obtained by dialing the proper number on your telephone. The question "What time is it?" is answered millions of times a day.

According to the Book of Ecclesiastes, "There is a time for every purpose under heaven . . . a time to keep silence and a time to speak . . ."

This is a time in Republic USA to speak. The year of 1968 is a year of unusual importance and urgency for the world and particularly for the United States of America. Patriots can and must be heard.

Our Republic must gain some greater force than has yet been brought forth in order to save its own liberty and the free world. Warmth of oratory combined with the exuberance of youth can meet this critical need. And this is the combination provided by the spreading Youth Freedom Speakers movement. Wherever YFS chapters have been formed, they have met with an enthusiastic reception.

One great strength of these young people who speak freedom is that they have not been taught to hate even the enemy. Instead, they speak of their love for freedom and American ideals. Their messages are constructive and inspiring. They have become convinced that if liberty is preserved for the next five years, it will be safe for the foreseeable future. They are determined to do their part. HLH.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Bobby Kennedy blames wiretap story on Johnson-Humphrey; LBJ suspended tape on Dr. King's wire; Congressman Resnick asks for probe of wiretapping

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, speaking in California, has charged the administration with inspiring our column which revealed that he had ordered the FBI to tap the telephone wire of Dr. Martin Luther King. The column was timed, Bobby charged, so as to influence the Oregon primary.

Instead of inspiring the wiretap column, however, the administration was so upset over its publication that the Justice Department started an official investigation of Pearson and Anderson.

Sen. Kennedy's answer, incidentally, should have been directed to the question of whether the story was true, not why the story was written.

He knew that he had been reporting on wiretapping and eavesdropping for some years, because he had talked with us about it, especially the series of columns reporting on the FBI bug on lobbyist Fred Black when Kennedy was Attorney General.

There was one error in the column complained about. It indicated that the tap was continued on King's wire up until the time of his assassination.

This was incorrect. It was removed in June 1965, when President Johnson issued an order to all federal agencies suspending both wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping until there could be a review of the entire situation. Johnson and his new Attorney General, Nicholas Katzenbach, had discovered wholesale government eavesdropping, including the tap on Dr. King, and they ordered it stopped.

The King wiretap had been requested by Attorney General Kennedy on July 16, 1963, but the FBI at that time argued him out of it on the ground that King traveled too much and that repercussions in Negro circles would be bad. Later, in October of 1963, Kennedy prevailed and the tape was placed on King's telephone.

-INVESTIGATION REQUESTED-

Meanwhile, Rep. Joseph Resnick, D-N.Y., asked the House of Representatives last week to investigate the case of Dr. King's wiretap. Four other congressmen supported him -- Neal Smith, Iowa, Charles Joelson, N. J., Joseph Vigorito, Pa., and Claude Pepper, Fla., all Democrats.

"The fact that a high-ranking official -- a member of the President's cabinet -- legally could and actually would order the FBI to bug the telephone of a distinguished American like Dr. King is an affront to the causes to which Dr. King dedicated his life," Resnick said.

"If Martin Luther King's home can be tapped -- for no apparent reason -- by order of one of the highest officials of government -- and a professed champion of the liberals -- then nobody is safe."

Referring to Bobby Kennedy's lame reply to the King wiretap charges, made through a spokesman, Resnick said: "The American people can hardly consider this 'response by proxy' an adequate one. I suggest a hearing under oath . . . no American wants 'Big Brother' looking over his shoulder, peeping through his keyhole, or listening in on his telephone."

Backing him up, Rep. Joelson pointed out that when he was a district attorney in New Jersey he had to satisfy a judge very carefully before he could issue a search warrant. "This is a very sensitive area," Joelson said, "and an attorney general of either political party is subject to political influences. If an attorney general can tap a wire without any court order, merely on his own say-so, then the right of privacy in this country is gone."

-FBI TECHNIQUES- This column has now obtained a copy of a secret FBI manual on the placing of secret microphones. The instructions are most revealing, and tacitly admit that listening devices must be installed by illegal entry and trespass. The FBI instructions follow: "Most microphone installations must be effected surreptitiously, making the installation of a microphone in an ideal location virtually impossible. This results in microphones frequently being placed some distance from the source of sound. If it is not possible to place the diaphragm of the microphone in close proximity to the area that must be covered, an acoustical impedance matching device should be installed. . . . "Wires must be strung from the microphone to the amplifier to carry the minute electrical impulses. . . . "The larger the wire used the less resistance is offered to the flow of the current and the better the results. However, it is usually desirable, for the sake of concealment, to use small wire when the type of microphone permits. In any instance, it should be understood that the wires must be well insulated to prevent them from short-circuiting by coming in contact with each other or other metal objects."

The FBI also lists in great detail the best places to hide microphones, as follows: behind baseboards; behind power outlets and electrical fixtures; ventilating and heating ducts (to be effective must be concealed so that flow of air will not strike or affect microphone); behind radiators, avoid intense heat; adjacent to service pipes; behind walls (place microphone as near surface of wall inside room as security and time permit); in heavy and seldom-moved furniture; in dummy telephones; in ornamental and large base lamps; in large and seldom-used picture frames; in doors, locks, doorknobs, etc., and in radio, television and intercommunication sets.

"Existing facilities such as telephones, public address systems, intercommunication stations, and speakers in radio and television sets may also be used to perform the microphone function."

Mrs. Hillhouse has served two years as vice president of the club, two years as Ninth District Federated Music Clubs parliamentary and served on the nominating committee this year to select officers for the ninth district.

She is a member of the board of directors of the Delta Community Concert Association.

In Arctic waters, a mantle of low-lying, gray-black fog constantly advances and recedes. Called a skodde, this blanket sometimes is so low that sailors on deck can't see one another, but lookouts high in crow's nests can sight masts of other vessels poking through the eerie mist.

Dyanap works two ways. It knocks out weeds on contact as well as killing weed seedlings as they germinate. It mixes readily with water. And there's no carryover to damage following crops.

Hector was a very quiet and reserved fellow except after he had printed this letter. A million hoisted a few. And, one night, he hoisted more than just a few. With his nose shining in the moonlight, he jumped behind the wheel of his automobile and began driving his neighbors to the distraction. A drive path circled his house and Hector kept racing home for dinner NOT to ask for a third helping of meat or a curve.

When the police finally arrived, high-flying Hector was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

"I can't be arrested for driving on my own property," the last night and I was a nervous inebriated Hector insisted in court. "The next thing you know, somebody will try and arrest me for overtime parking in my own meal to the end. There were 12 at our table including some important business associates of my husband. Those kids made a drive. And, Hector was certainly looped when he was going around nervous wreck out of me with 'more meat, please,' even before the adults had a chance to finish their portions. I

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Hector of drunken driving on his own property? This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that the crime of driving while intoxicated is not limited to driving on public highways; that an intoxicated motorist is a menace to the public as well as to himself and, consequently, such drivers are prohibited from driving anywhere.

Ann Landers

There's No Accounting
For Human Behavior

Dear Ann Landers: Are people crazier today than at any time in the history of man? I believe the answer is "yes." The item I just read in the newspaper is pretty good evidence.

It seems a Mrs. P. Haverland of Charleston, West Virginia has nothing better to do with her time than to try to break the record for being buried alive. The record is held by some flea-brain who lay in an underground casket for 75 days. Mrs. Haverland is sure she can set a new record.

I would like to suggest that anyone who has 75 days to blow ought to go to some hospital and volunteer to break a record visiting the sick or writing letters for the disabled or just cheering up the lonely people in the nursing homes. Do you agree, Ann? - CHICAGO READER

Dear Chicago: People usually enjoy doing what they do best. Perhaps this is Mrs. Haverland's greatest talent.

Dear Ann Landers: Paul and I plan to be married in September. Paul comes from a large family and so do I. We were both born and raised in this city and have a great many friends. Since my folks can't afford to give me a big wedding we have decided to have a simple ceremony with only the immediate family present.

Now the problem: People we know have been asking us if they can come to the wedding. I think it's poor manners to fish for an invitation, but these folks feel very friendly and they don't see it that way.

I've tried to be evasive and noncommittal but it's getting more difficult all the time. What do you suggest? - ON THE SPOT BRIDE

Dear Bride: Be direct and honest. Say, "I wish we could invite all our dear friends to the wedding but it isn't possible." Then you can add, "We hope you'll come to see us when we're settled" - if you WANT them to, that is.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter. A million women will love you.

Why don't the mothers of America teach their children when they go to someone's home for dinner NOT to ask for a third helping of meat or a second dessert? A family of eight (six kids) came to dinner last night and I was a nervous wreck from the beginning of the meal to the end. There were 12 at our table including some important business associates of my husband. Those kids made a nervous wreck out of me with "more meat, please," even before the adults had a chance to finish their portions. I thought surely their mother would say something but she just sat there as if the kids belonged to someone else and let them make pigs of themselves. For dessert I baked a triple layer chocolate cake (10-inch tins) with mocha icing. This is a pretty big cake, Ann, but, it wasn't enough.

If you've never been in a spot where you've had to worry about running short of food, you haven't missed anything. Please, Ann Landers, be a friend and print this letter.

-CLEANED OUT

Dear CLEANED: Children should be taught never to ask for a second helping of anything when they are guests. If the hostess offers, fine; otherwise they should eat what is served and if they are still hungry, another roll or a slice of bread should satisfy them.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces it is love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Millin Campaigns In Area

Russell Millin, Kansas City, Democratic candidate for attorney general, began a week of campaigning Monday in Southeast Missouri. He will continue meeting voters with his family through Saturday.

Millin, whose record in the U. S. attorney's office for Western Missouri earned him a title of "nation's outstanding crime fighter", plans to visit all of the major towns and cities in the area.

Millin said: "The families of rural Missouri are the backbone of our state. No other group of citizens have a greater respect for law and order. None has a greater contribution to make my efforts to gain the Democratic nomination for Attorney General. I need the support of rural Missouri Democrats so we can take firm action against the wave of lawlessness now gripping our state."

Millin noted that his opponent, "Attorney General Anderson has admitted using state funds for campaign activities, official offices for political purposes and using state personnel as his own political staff."

The Kansas Citian declared, "In addition, every decent Missourian was shocked to learn that the Attorney General employed a known police character with more than twenty arrests in this the most sensitive law enforcement office in our state. Missouri and the Democratic Party can no longer tolerate this gross disrespect for the law from our chief legal officer."

Millin will be accompanied by his wife Maxine and daughter Chris during the early part of the week's activities. When school closes later in the week he will be joined by daughters Jennifer and Carolyn. A son David is serving with the armed forces in Vietnam.

Democrats throughout the state are enthusiastic about the 47-year old candidate for Attorney General. He has already gained the support and endorsement of the prestigious Jackson County Committee for County Progress headed by Judge Charles E. Curry.

In announcing the CCP endorsement Judge Curry said: "No candidate possesses the essential qualities of integrity, dedication to justice and a proven ability to carry out imaginative crime fighting programs more than Russ Millin. We urge all Democrats interested in restoring law and order to our state to support this outstanding public servant."

Millin has announced several new programs for "improving the quality and effectiveness of our law enforcement through the Missouri Attorney General's Office."

These include an "advocate of law" to serve as coordinator of school and community educational programs; mobilization of lawyers of the state to revise and improve our laws and to deal with the social problems of the cities by bringing the law to the people, and supportive services to local law enforcement officials. The campaign theme of the vigorous candidate for Attorney General is "Make the Law Triumph".

He sums up the meaning of this phrase: "My campaign has a simple but profound theme - to make the law triumph. Within this simple idea is found the majesty and the durability of our democratic nation."

"It is an echo of the Constitution and Bill of Rights. It is an awesome summing up of the very heart and soul of this nation. It is a reflection of our people's conscience which has welded us together as a nation against all enemies."

"Make the law triumph - and we need not fear the angry and fear-ridden voices that attack the walls of our city."

"Make the law triumph and we will be raising the sights of every man to the ideals that unite us. We will proclaim to the world that we are once again united in a course of action to reach an impossible dream - a dream of full equality for all, dignity for every man - with the law as our guide and mentor. For the meaning of America is the will of the people codified into law. This is what this nation is all about."

Red General Links U.S. Peace Bid to Losing War Effort

PARIS (AP) — In a hard-line interview apparently linked to the Paris peace talks, North Vietnam's top military leader asserted today the United States is losing the war in Vietnam—and implied that is why it is seeking peace.

The interview with Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, Hanoi's defense minister, was published in the French Communist party newspaper L'Humanite, and U.S. experts here for the talks had no doubt the choice of Paris for debate of the statement was deliberate.

Giap stated that a tough, confident position. Diplomats said it could indicate an unyielding attitude by North Vietnamese negotiators in the talks—or could cover shifting, more flexible, tactics.

One of Hanoi's chief political leaders, Le Duc Tho, a member of the nine-man Politburo of the Vietnamese Communist party, arrived here Monday as "special counselor" to Ambassador Xuan Thuy, the negotiator.

Statements from Hanoi have indicated that at some point Thuy might be prepared to go into broad political questions of a peace settlement if the United States would acknowledge a responsibility to stop the rest of the bombing of the North.

Thuy and Ambassador W. Averell Harriman will meet again Wednesday, after a four-day recess following their sixth session on Friday.

What seems to be developing old, the United States is still a move by North Vietnam to get around its own limitation demand that it "unconditionally and of war" against the North.

He accused the United States of employing "dilatory means" and said this is preventing progress. But he added:

"I am persuaded that if the American side renounces its obstinate attitude, the conversations on other problems of interest to the two sides can begin without delay as our government said in its declaration of May 3, 1968."

This appeared to leave the way open for some formula by which the United States could declare its willingness to stop the bombing before other issues could be talked about.

This suggested that Hanoi, with Moscow's support, might be interested in moving the Paris conference into a second phase.

Thuy seemed to bear this out. He spoke specifically about the possibility of getting an early start on discussion of "other problems"—obviously broad political questions which get more fully into issues of peace.

Thuy charged that although the Paris talks are three weeks old, the United States is still stalling on North Vietnam's demand that it "unconditionally and of war" against the North.

Widening of Three Streets Approved by Council

The city council last night approved bids on widening of three streets, vacating of two streets and alleys, and changed the name of one.

A National Flag Week observance June 9-15 was approved, purchase of 40 parking meters authorized and the council heard a delegation seeking improvement of Sunset Addition. The two-hour session was the longest since Kendall Sikes became mayor in April of 1966.

All councilmen except Lee Shell were present.

Bids were approved for widening of Brannum street, Davis Boulevard and North street, and for improvement of Benton and Jaycee streets.

A petition for changing the name of Franklin avenue to Allen Boulevard, signed by all-property owners except one, was approved by voice but final action was deferred until legal steps are completed.

The cost of widening of the streets is Benton street, from Warner to East street, for curb and guttering, $1.99 per lineal foot, awarded to Flaire Ferrell.

North street, from near Stoddard street to Frisco railroad tracks with 6 foot by 7 foot widening on north side only, awarded to Flaire Ferrell, $4,642.45; Davis street, widening seven feet on each side, from North Street to Dover street, to Flaire Ferrell, $3,278.70; Jaycee street, from Malone to Adams street, with hot mix asphalt and six inch soil cement base, awarded to W. S. McMullin, at $4.60 per foot; Brannum street, from Murray Lane to West Malone, with six foot widening on each side, awarded to W. S. McMullin, $11,000.00.

The resignation of Hank Switala as a member of the park board, was accepted. Bill Paylor was chosen to fill the vacancy.

The council was asked to close Fletcher street. Action was deferred until it could be advertised.

Approval was given for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company to lay an underground conduit and manhole systems on projects adjacent to city parks.

A letter of appreciation was read from C. Clarence Scott for cooperation of the city in his business building and back lot improvement.

A letter was read from Mayor I. B. McNew Sr., of Morehouse, in appreciation of the firemen's response to a fire there.

The council approved a five percent beer license for Gerald A. Throgmorton, who is operating the former Daugherty's Tavern, owned by Bob Nowell.

Removal of three parking meters, one in front of Lewis Furniture store, and two in front of Thrower Shoe and Repair on Front street, was authorized.

The recommendation was made by David Friedman, chairman of Downtown Merchants Association.

A petition asking for the vacating of an alley that extends from Wilson street west, approximately 110 feet, and 62 feet north of Chesap street, was approved, subject to advertising.

The $2,033 bid for 40 parking meters by Duncan Village, Ill., with a $6 trade-in for each meter and a five percent discount, was accepted.

A delegation from Sunset Addition, with Louis Wiggins, Willie Dixon and Don Fulton, spoke men, asking improvements and additional housing units.

The group asked for improvement for Westgate street, that buildings to be removed along the Frisco railroad right-of-way that are eyesores and dangerous.

George Johnson was reappointed a member of the board of adjustment.

Mayor Sikes called attention to a joint meeting of the planning commission and the city council, tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Johnson Calls for Soviet Cooperation In Search for Peace

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson revisiting the site of his year-ago summit talks with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin, said today the road to peace in Vietnam will be slow and tough—but it would be less rocky if the United States and Russia "are willing to travel part way together."

Johnson, in remarks delivered in commencement exercises at Glassboro State College, made what amounted to an appeal for new, closer American-Soviet cooperation. He said he wanted to move "from war to peace, from hostility to reconciliation, from stalemate to progress."

The President said in the preliminary Vietnam peace talks in Paris the United States so far has "met with little more than bellicose statements and evasions" from Hanoi's representatives.

"This was part of his appeal to the Soviets, too, in enunciating his view of a major principle in the search for peace."

"The road there (in Hanoi) is far less rocky when the world's two greatest powers—the United States and the Soviet Union—are willing to travel part way together," the President said.

Johnson was unabashed in soliciting flatly the good will and help of Russia in seeking an end to the Vietnam fighting and leaving "this world a little more orderly than we found it."

The President told the 1,651 graduates that since his summit meeting with Kosygin at Hollybush, the home of the college president, cooperation between the two nations had reached new heights.

"Although old antagonisms

have not been erased," Johnson asserted, "we have proved that our two countries can behave as responsible members of the family of nations."

Johnson left little doubt that he'd welcome more of the same.

Suggesting new avenues of American-Soviet cooperation in studying the human environment and exploring the world's resources—from ocean floors to tropical rain forests—Johnson said, "It is by small threads... that we will weave a strong fabric of peace in the world."

The President flew from Washington in his Air Force jet, landing at Pennsylvania Air National Guard ramp at Philadelphia International Airport, where he limbed into a helicopter for the 30-mile ride to Glassboro.

The exercises were held outdoors for the crowd of about 7,000.

The President's helicopter landed on the athletic field nearby.

Johnson's decision to come to Glassboro had been rumored for the past few days, and he substituted on the program for New Jersey Gov. Richard Hughes.

Johnson said since he and the Soviet premier met here last June 23 and 25 to forge what was then called "the spirit of Hollybush," he believes that the "two great powers... have begun, however haltingly, to bridge the gulf that has separated them for a quarter of a century."

Johnson taking advantage of the anniversary for this major foreign policy address, acknowledged that peace isn't just around the corner. He emphasized, "We will run into difficulties and painful setbacks" with the correct course of public policy often seeming unclear."

But, he said, the task ahead is to "seek answers not slogans to strive to tip the balance in the right direction."

The President said that Glassboro and its college campus "will always be associated with that goal and that great effort."

Johnson said that during the past year "the work of peace has been going on in many ways that do not make headlines... but as these issues touch on our relations with the Soviet Union they are important nonetheless."

He noted that work has been completed "on a treaty forbidding weapons in outer space on an agreement to assist astronauts downed in either country; on a new consular treaty; on an agreement permitting Soviet planes to land in the United States and ours to land in Moscow."

"Just yesterday," Johnson added, "we began talks in Moscow about a renewal of our cultural exchange agreement with the Soviets."

"Every one of those steps is a step toward peace."

In discussing the current Paris talks with representatives of Hanoi, Johnson said that "as yet the other side has had nothing of substance to say to those of us who seek a just peace in Asia."

Then he went on:

"First: in response to our concrete proposals the other side has offered only propaganda."

"Second: Their representatives in Paris continue to deny a fact which the world knows to be true—the massive presence of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam."

"Finally, the North Vietnamese in Paris will say to us only 'stop the rest of your bombing' at a time when more North Vietnamese supplies and materials than ever before are flooding into South Vietnam."

Viet Cong Gunners Renew Heavy Shelling of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong gunners shelled Saigon for the second night in a row tonight, hitting 20 mortar rounds at the capital's southern sector in two attacks.

A U.S. spokesman said 10 82mm mortar rounds landed near the Cho Quan power station, but the station was not damaged. A few minutes later about 20 more rounds hit the 4th Precinct. There was no immediate word on casualties.

The mortar attack followed by less than 24 hours a barrage of 40 rockets in the heaviest enemy shelling so far of the embattled capital district. The Viet Cong, meanwhile, sent fresh troops into Saigon and U.S. sources conceded that the enemy "certainly could keep the fighting going for quite a while."

New fighting broke out only a mile and a half north of President Nguyen Van Thieu's Independence Palace, in the heart of Saigon, while government forces were still battling other enemy troops for the fifth day in the western part of the capital and in the northeastern suburb of Gia Dinh, 2 1/2 miles from the city's center.

Military spokesmen reported that South Vietnamese marines and rangers, spearheaded by a column of tanks, mounted a massive attack on North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in Gia Dinh this afternoon. The spokesmen said the government troops overran Viet Cong positions and drove the enemy back a mile.

In the western part of the capital, the Chinese section called Cholon, government forces were still trying to root out rocket firing, sniping enemy troops holed up in a residential area three miles from the presidential palace. Intelligence sources had estimated 15 to 20 guerrillas were holed up, but a defector reported 200 enemy in the area.

U.S. sources said there were reports that five-man Viet Cong cells were infiltrating into the capital in civilian clothes. The reports said the cells were told to hide in "safe" houses as back-up forces.

Senior U.S. officers say the intensified pressure on Saigon is part of a plan to influence the Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam.

During the night the Saigon area was hit by some 40 enemy rockets between about 1:30 and 2:30 a.m. It was the biggest enemy bombardment of the war in the area, and as it began the city's sirens sounded for the first time to alert the 3 million inhabitants. But only 10 persons were reported injured and damage was comparatively minor.

Eighteen of the rockets landed around a company from the U.S. 9th Infantry Division five miles south of the center of Saigon, but no American casualties were reported.

As an indication of the serious view the Saigon government took of the situation in the capital, it today appointed a major general,

Nguyen Van Minh, to direct the defense of the capital military district. This had been one of the duties of the commander of the 3rd military corps area, which also includes the 11 provinces around Saigon, and he delegated day-to-day operations in the city to a colonel.

Elsewhere across the country, hard fighting was reported in four places:

—U.S. 9th Division infantrymen swooped into a Viet Cong rest camp and reported killing 187 enemy troops in fighting that raged through rice paddies in the fertile Mekong Delta 4 miles southwest of Saigon. U.S. casualties were put at 36 killed and more than 50 wounded.

—Between 70 and 100 North Vietnamese soldiers attacked units of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division during the night in the central highlands 14 miles northwest of Dak To. The enemy troops got to within 20 yards of the American perimeter and opened fire with small arms and grenades. The attack was repulsed, U.S. headquarters said, at a cost of three Americans killed and 23 wounded. A spokesman said a sweep of the area at dawn failed to turn up any enemy bodies, but numerous trails of blood were found, indicating a number of the attackers were killed or wounded.

—Fifty South Vietnamese soldiers and 10 U.S. advisers repelled a heavy mortar and ground attack by a larger force of North Vietnamese regulars at an outpost 22 miles northwest of Saigon. Military spokesmen said the defenders killed 48 of the attackers with the help of heavy air and artillery strikes. Allied casualties were not reported immediately.

—In the northern war zone, near Phu Bai, allied forces reported killing 28 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops.

Gasoline Stolen
Mrs. Bert Shuffit, 502 Murray Lane, reported to police that gasoline was stolen from her car.

PUNTA GORDA, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Abby moved onto this west coast Florida fishing village today and aimed her diminishing winds and torrential rains across the state toward the nation's moonport on Cape Kennedy.

Behind her five persons were missing and a child was dead, a victim of Abby's flooding.

Flood and tornado warnings were in effect in parts of central and southern Florida.

Abby passed over Punta Gorda at latitude 27 north, longitude 82 west, or 10 miles south of Tampa. The storm harassed residents with gale winds and two-foot tides. There were no reports of injuries or extensive damage.

Forecaster Arnold Sugg at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said the storm would weaken as it moved north-northeast across the state.

At the moonport, heavy rain was reported. The Air Force and National Aeronautics and Space Administration ordered equipment vulnerable to gusty winds tied down.

But early today Abby swung almost due east and hit the mainland at Punta Gorda.

One death was attributed to the hurricane and five persons were reported missing at sea.

Officials said Abby-spawned floodwaters claimed the life of one-year-old April Geans in Key West. Deputies said she drowned after wandering away from a relative.

Coast Guard search craft located a fishing boat sunk in the storm-whipped surf off Pigeon Key east of Key West. The man reported to have been aboard was not found, officials said.

A second boat, a 34-foot sloop with two Miami couples aboard, was reported missing near the Dry Tortugas, islands west of Key West.

Suggs said top winds near the eye of the storm were measured at 60 miles an hour. Although the storm was stationary, the forecaster said hurricane precautions should not be relaxed and warned of high tides and the possibility of an isolated tornado over the central portion of Florida.

Police said the boy apparently wandered in the lake where he was found in shallow water.

Caruthersville Marine Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five marines from Missouri were killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department said Monday.

Long View Favored

Adoption of a telescopic view of life was recommended by Dr. E. D. Owen, Cape Girardeau Baptist minister, last night in a speech to the Rotary club at the Rustic Rock Inn.

"All of the great men of the Bible had it," Dr. Owen told the club in support of what he called "the long view."

Dr. Owen described the microscopic view as "seeing only small things," the periscope view as "seeing only what is on the surface," the stereoscopic view as "a beautiful picture but unreal" and the kaleidoscopic view as "a picture which changes almost as soon as you get it in focus."

He was introduced by Charles Green.

W. L. Clayton and Max Chandler were introduced as new members.

John Waters of Jackson, Mich., was a guest of his brother, Alex Waters, and Herbert Rogers of Halifax, N.S., was a visiting Rotarian.

Green led the singing with Emily Bruce accompany at the piano.

President Fred Koch announced that the June 24 meeting would be a ladies night and that officers would be installed. The club will meet next Monday night at the Rustic Rock to eat then go to the Sikeston regional diagnostic clinic for a program.

He rejected Kennedy's suggestion that they join forces after the California contest so that one of them will have a chance to wrest the nomination from Humphrey, currently the leader in delegate strength.

McCarthy charged the Kennedy forces with running a "cheap" newspaper advertisement questioning his record on law enforcement.

Kennedy has talked of quitting the presidential race should he lose in California. He suffered his first setback to McCarthy one week ago in the Oregon presidential primary, after winning in Indiana and Nebraska.

McCarthy said he will stay in the nomination contest even if he loses in California.

It was on June 14, 1777, that the Continental Congress passed this resolution:

"Resolved, that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

No one knows who designed this flag, or who made the first one. William J. Canby said in 1870 that his grandmother, Betsy Ross, made the first one, but historians doubt it.

The Continental Congress left no record to show why it chose red, white and blue for the flag, but in 1782 the Congress of the Confederation chose these same colors for the newly designed Great Seal of the United States.

The resolution on the seal said red is for hardness and courage, white is for purity and innocence, and blue is for vigilance, perseverance, and justice.

And the flag itself?
"The Stars and Stripes stands for the land, the people, the government, and the ideals of the United States, no matter when or where it is displayed."

Fly it proudly.

FOR NOMINATION OF EDWARD L. DOWD

On the basis of his fine record as a public official and his progressive attitude on vital state problems, Edward L. Dowd deserves the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor of Missouri.

Mr. Dowd is the outstanding candidate among 10 seeking the nomination in the August primaries. Until recently he was little known beyond the St. Louis metropolitan area, but he has remedied this by widespread stumping throughout the state. He has been well received.

If high caliber public service is any measure of a candidate for office, and we think it is, Edward Dowd merits approval by Democratic voters.

He spent 10 years in the St. Louis Circuit Attorney's office, the last four as Circuit Attorney, a post to which he was elected in 1952. During his regime the annual average of felony convictions was doubled. His career in this office was vigorous and showed courage.

He was appointed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to head one of the best police boards the city has ever had, resigning last March to run for Lieutenant Governor. While he was president of the Police Board, the department beefed up its strength, held crime increases below the national average, and expanded a successful police-community relations program.

Mr. Dowd has revealed during his campaign speeches over the state a constructive attitude toward state policies and legislation.

He advocates increasing state aid for public schools to 50 per cent of costs, more financial help for the University of Missouri and junior colleges, additional state aid to mental health hospitals and more detoxification centers around Missouri.

He supports the $34 million capital building program the Governor will present to a special Assembly session next month, and proposes expansion of the police effort in community relations in all cities through the state.

Mr. Dowd's chief opponent for the nomination apparently is William S. Morris, Public Administrator of Kansas City. Mr. Morris is expected to get support from Alex Presta, former convict, and the shady North Side element in Kansas City, which has been politically linked in the past with the St. Louis Steamfitters Union. Mr. Dowd has neither received nor will accept campaign money from the steamfitters.

The office of Lieutenant Governor is often a stepping-stone to other major posts in Missouri or federal government. Its function can also be made influential in state administration. It is wise to select nominees in each party who can handle the job competently and with distinction.

For these reasons we believe Edward Dowd should be nominated. We endorse him fully confident in his ability.

California's State Senator George Miller, Jr., said: "After years of study and involvement in taxation problems, I know that taxation is only a choice among evils. Little is gained if attention is mainly focused on attempting to pass the burden to another level of government, be it federal or local. The only cure for tax rate increases is able administration. An elastic tax structure related by policy to healthy business growth is the only answer."

CONSTITUTION DAY or adopted this day, 1847.

Motorists were urged by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, to be extra watchful for children now that schools have closed for summer vacation.

"The vacation months of June, July and August have been a tragic time for young pedestrians and bicyclists in the past," Hockaday stated. "For example, 11 pedestrians in the past, 11 pedestrians 14 years old or younger lost their lives in Missouri traffic accidents last year. There were also four bicyclists in this same age group killed during this period. I urge drivers to be extra alert for children during the warm vacation months ahead."

The Patrol Superintendent noted that since youngsters do not usually concern themselves with their own safety, drivers must do so for them. He said, "All the safety rules that children have been taught may be forgotten while they are absorbed in play. Drive slowly and expect the unexpected, especially in residential areas and places where children congregate."

Colonel Hockaday also stated that parents have the responsibility to give thought and concern to the summer playing habits of their small children. He pointed out that while teachers supervised their children's play for nine months, now the parents must make certain they play in areas away from heavy traffic.

"Thousands of children are looking forward to a happy and carefree summer vacation," Hockaday concluded. "Drivers and parents can help give them such a vacation by accepting their share of responsibility in the safety of these youngsters."

LAW BREAKING

VERSUS

LAW CHANGING

The American Civil Liberties Union has issued a statement on the willful violation of valid laws that is worth repeating: "... the ACLU believes that the way to correct injustice in a free society is to change valid laws by persuasion, not by their violation. Freedom to say what one believes, not to do what one wishes, is what is protected by the First Amendment. A democratic society is as much in need of compliance by citizens with laws with which they disagree as it is of the freedom to criticize and the means to change such laws."

"High motivation and deep-felt conscience may be... the moving force of those who practice civil disobedience. But this does not mean that those who disobey laws for... less altruistic motives should be convicted while those who deliberately disobey laws for better - motivated reasons should be acquitted. To make this type of distinction would be to change a nation governed by law to one governed by motivation alone."

CRISIS, 1968

Of late the word "crisis" has been used rather freely to describe the economic and financial state of the country. Yet the precise nature of the crisis that is being described, and of the dangers that are foreseen, is seldom made clear.

Chairman Martin, of the Federal Reserve Board, is reported as stating that, unless our federal-budget deficit and our international-payments deficit are corrected, the consequence will be "either an uncontrollable recession or an uncontrollable inflation." One wonders why, if these two polar opposites are both possible, the actual outcome might not be something halfway in between — say a reasonably high level of economic activity accompanied by a reasonably stable price level.

What are we really worried about? Is it a continuation of the present inflation? Or do we rather fear a reversal of the present situation, with deflation and rising unemployment?

You may search the text of recent scare speeches without getting any satisfying answer to these questions. One is left with a vague impression that what is foreseen (at least as a possibility) is an acceleration of inflation leading to some ultimate catastrophe that would then be followed by serious deflation and unemployment.

Such a pattern of development over time is at least conceivable since it involves no logical contradictions. But there is no clear reason why we should, in fact, expect events to take this course.

In popular discussions of the present economic picture there is an increasing tendency to evoke the experience of the 1930's. Perhaps one reason for anticipating an inflation - catastrophe - deflation sequence arising from the present situation is the belief that this is the way things went in the late 1920's and early 1930's. One of the widely accepted interpretations of the deflationary disasters after 1929 is that they were an inescapable penalty for the inflationary sins of the period just before. Having danced in the 1920's, we paid the piper in the 1930's and it's said this is the way things must always go.

The difficulty with that interpretation is that it is based on a myth. The 1920's were not characterized by the kind of inflation we have had in the 1960's. The 1920's were a period of well-balanced prosperity during which there was actually a slight downward trend in the price level.

All that this proves, of course, is that a naive "what goes up must come down" theory is not of much help in explaining or predicting major economic movements. It certainly does not prove that we are guaranteed unconditionally against appearance as you can. Well-kept inflation, deflation or any other kind of unpleasantness. Those who foresee some combination of these disasters may turn out to be right, but we wish that their pronouncements contained more analysis and less scare-talk. Perhaps we should be scared—but we would like to know precisely what and of what.

Recent statements on the crisis theme, including that of Chairman Martin, have identified federal fiscal policy as the chief source of present difficulties and the chief reason for concern about the future. In this we believe they are correct. But there is a danger that the most important problem of fiscal policy may be overlooked, while attention is concentrated on secondary questions.

All government spending imposes a burden, in one form or another, on the economy and on those who participate in it. There is simply no way of escaping this elementary fact. So the PRIMARY question of fiscal policy is: how will that burden be?

The secondary question of fiscal policy is: how will that total burden be allocated among our individual citizens? There are several options. Many different kinds of taxation can be used to assign the burden according to the intentions of Congress. Or deficit financing can be used, in which case the burden usually takes the form of inflation and is allocated rather haphazardly and inequitably. Or, when deficit financing is combined with restrictive monetary action, the burden is likely to show up as a credit shortage which bears especially hard on such groups as home buyers and home builders.

The choice among these options has important consequences, both for individuals and for the economy generally. Our point is that these decisions as to how the burden of government spending will be allocated are less important than the decision as to how big that burden will be. If you have to carry a load up a hill, it makes some difference to you whether you carry it on your back or on your shoulders. But it makes even more difference whether it weighs 50 pounds or 100 pounds. Taxation is probably a better way than inflation of carrying the burden of increased government spending. A still better way of solving the problem is not to increase government spending at all.

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Bobby Kennedy blames wiretap story on Johnson-Humphrey; LBJ suspended tape on Dr. King's wire; Congressmen Resnick asks for probe of wiretapping

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, speaking in California, has charged the administration with inspiring our column which revealed that he had ordered the FBI to tap the telephone wire of Dr. Martin Luther King. The column was timed, Bobby charged, so as to influence the Oregon primary.

Instead of inspiring the wiretap column, however, the administration was so upset over its publication that the Justice Department started an official investigation of Pearson and Anderson.

Sen. Kennedy's answer, incidentally, should have been directed to the question of whether the story was true, not why the story was written. He knew that he had been reporting on wiretapping and eavesdropping for some years, because he had talked with us about it, especially the series of columns reporting on the FBI bug on lobbyist Fred Black when Kennedy was Attorney General.

There was one error in the column complained about. It indicated that the tap was continued on King's wire up until the time of his assassination.

would be bad. Later, in October of 1963, Kennedy prevailed and the tape was placed on King's telephone.

INVESTIGATION REQUESTED

Meanwhile, Rep. Joseph Resnick, D-N.Y., asked the House of Representatives last week to investigate the case of Dr. King's wiretap. Four other congressmen supported him — Neal Smith, Iowa, Charles Joelson, N. J., Joseph Vigorito, and Claude Pepper, Fla., all Democrats.

"The fact that a high-ranking official — a member of the President's cabinet — legally could and actually would order the FBI to bug the telephone of a distinguished American like Dr. King is an affront to the causes to which Dr. King dedicated his life," Resnick said.

"If Martin Luther King's home can be tapped -- for no apparent reason -- by order of one of the highest officials of government -- and a professed champion of the liberals -- then nobody is safe."

Referring to Bobby Kennedy's lame reply to the King wiretap charges, made through a spokesman, Resnick said: "The American people can hardly consider this response by proxy" an adequate one. I suggest a hearing under oath... No American wants "Big Brother" looking over his shoulder, peeping through his keyhole, or listening in on his telephone."

admit that listening devices must be installed by FBI entry and trespass. The FBI instructions follow:

"Most microphone installations must be effected surreptitiously, making the installation of a microphone in an ideal location virtually impossible. This results in microphones frequently being placed some distance from the source of sound. If it is not possible to place the diaphragm of the microphone in close proximity to the area that must be covered, an acoustical impedance matching device should be installed."

"Wires must be strung from the microphone to the amplifier to carry the minute electrical impulses..."

"The larger the wire used the less resistance is offered to the flow of the current and the better the results. However, it is usually desirable, for the sake of concealment, to use small wire when the type of microphone permits. In any instance, it should be understood that the wires must be well insulated to prevent them from short-circuiting by coming in contact with each other or other metal objects."

The FBI also lists in great detail the best places to hide microphones, as follows: behind baseboards; behind power outlets and electrical fixtures; ventilating and heating ducts (to be effective must be concealed so that flow of air will not strike or affect microphone); behind radiators, avoid intense heat; adjacent to service pipes; behind walls (place microphone as near surface of wall inside room as security and time permit); in heavy and seldom-moved furniture; in dummy telephones; in ornamental and large base lamps; in large and large-based books; in calendar pads; in picture frames; in doors, locks, door knobs, etc., and in radio, television and intercommunication sets.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — It is nice to know, where you're with another person, what sex that person is.

Men, for example, traditionally feel more free to be themselves, are more at ease, even speak in a different manner if they are in the company of other men. They are also usually more boisterous and less boyish.

Women, on the other hand, when in the company of women show just the opposite traits. They are more ill at ease, less free to be themselves, and in many cases profoundly less feminine and fun-worthy.

One of the increasing problems of civilization is how to tell one sex from the other. The passion for conformity appears to be gradually destroying many of the recognizable differences between the sexes.

Here are a few guidelines that help the interested bystander distinguish the hims from the hers:

If it likes, while swigging something straight from a paper cup, to stand in the backyard and brag about the barbecue sauce it has concocted, it is a man. If it would rather go to an indoor cocktail party and gab with it doesn't know about baseball and politics, it is a woman.

Does it punch you in the ribs while it tells a merry story? Has to be a buck. Does it place a soft but infinitely restraining hand upon your arm while it tell you its troubles? Has to be a doe.

The one that says, "Let's have another one," can be safely described as male. The one that inquires, "Oh, do you really think I should?" is undoubtedly female.

Out to the incinerator to deliver the garbage with a grim air of resignation trudges the husband. Out to the incinerator with a burst of oratory, "This isn't the way it happens in the apartment next door — after all SHE is married to a civilized man," walks a burdened wife.

Does it accept love as a bond and a mystery that must be taken for granted? That's the eternal lad. Must it be assured of love and does it demand that love's mystery be expressed in words, however lame and unhelpful, as well as in conduct, however eloquently mutual? That's the eternal lass.

IUKA, Ill. — Miss Joyce Elaine Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pierce of Iuka, and James L. Raver, son of Mrs. Bertha Raver of Salem and the late Roy Raver, exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony May 11 at Central Christian church.

Robert Raver, brother of the groom, performed the ceremony before a candelabra entwined with greenery and baskets of yellow pom-poms and daisies. Nephews of the groom, Doug and James Raver, served as candlelighters. Fred Zurbruggen and Terry Lee were ushers. Leon Quick served as best man.

3 RBIs In 7-2 Win

Mike Shannon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Nelson Briles scattered 11 hits Monday night as the St. Louis Cardinals swept to their sixth straight National League victory, 7-2, over the Houston Astros at Houston.

Mike Shannon led the St. Louis attack with two doubles and a sacrifice fly, good for three RBIs. The Cardinals also collected 11 hits.

Orlando Cepeda accounted for two Cardinal runs with three hits in five times at bat, including his sixth home run of the season in the ninth.

Briles was bothered somewhat by a muscle spasm before the game, but managed to fan 10 Astros.

"He really hit the outside corner of the plate," Manager Red Schoendienst commented. "I was worried though, about the twitch in his side."

Catcher Tim McCarver thought Briles' pitching was all one could ask for. "His fast ball ran out on right-handed hitters," McCarver commented, "and in on left-handed hitters." The victory gave Briles a 6-4 record.

Loser Denny Lemaster is now 4-5.

Singles by Julian Javier, Curt Flood, and Cepeda scored the Cardinals first run in the fourth.

Shannon's first double added another run. Dal Maxvill singled to score another run with the bases loaded in the inning.

Shannon's second double drove in a run in the fifth, and his sacrifice fly scored his third run in the seventh.

The victory kept the Cardinals in first place by one game as second-place Atlanta kept pace with a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati.

St. Louis plays Houston again tonight with Steve Carlton (6-1) set to start for the Cardinals, and Mike Cuellar (2-1) scheduled to pitch for Houston.

The Ken Boyer-Rocky Colavito entry, out of the money a year ago in Chicago, is beginning to pay its way for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Boyer and Colavito, the aging sluggers obtained by the Dodgers this spring in separate deals with the Chicago White Sox, delivered successive run-scoring singles in the first inning Monday night, triggering Los Angeles to a 2-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

Staked to the early lead, southpaw Claude Osteen scattered seven hits and blanked the Pirates with the help of four double plays.

Atlanta grabbed second place by edging Cincinnati 3-2 and Philadelphia nipped San Francisco 1-0 in other games.

The Chicago Cubs and New York Mets were idle.

Cleveland beat the White Sox 3-2 in 14 innings, Boston beat Detroit 4-3, Minnesota edged New York 4-3, and Baltimore topped California 2-0. Oakland and Washington were not scheduled.

The Dodgers purchased Colavito, 34, shortly before the start of the season and signed Boyer, 37, as a free agent last month in an effort to beef up their attack.

The White Sox picked up both veterans last season for the same reason, but could finish no better than fourth—although the pair combined to drive in 50 runs.

Monday night, Boyer hiked his batting average 25 points to .304 with a double and the RBI single in three trips to the plate.

Colavito, 1-for-3 against the Pirates, moved up four points to an even .200. The Dodgers, meanwhile, returned to the .500 level and remained only 3 1/2 games off the lead.

Osteen, who struck out six, brought his record to 4-7 at the expense of Pirate southpaw Bob Veale, 2-6, who has been given a total of eight runs to work with in his six setbacks.

Hank Aaron bounced into a force play in the sixth inning, stole second and scored on Tito Francona's two-out single, breaking a 2-2 tie at Cincinnati.

The Reds grabbed a 2-0 first inning lead against winner Ken Johnson, 3-3, but Joe Torre's two-run homer pulled the Braves even in the fourth.

After Francona's single broke the deadlock, Claude Raymond pitched three scoreless innings of relief, protecting the one-run edge.

Chris Short stopped the Giants on five hits and Philadelphia pushed over an unearned run against Ray Sadecki in the seventh on Bill White's single, a passed ball by catcher Dick Dietz and a single by Roberto Pena.

The Giants, who had two runners thrown out at the plate in failing to give Sadecki a run for the third time in his last three starts, slipped from second to third place in the race—1 1/2 games off the pace.

Halter, Farris Keys in 4-0 Win

Tim Halter carded his second win of the season for the Sikeston Potlatch Forest Connie Mack baseball team last night as he set Puxico down on two hits in the opening game for both in the Black River Connie Mack League.

Halter got 13-hit backing, including a pair of home runs by Bruce Farris.

It was the second victory in three games for Potlatch, defending Connie Mack regional champions.

Farris struck with a round tripper in the first inning with two on and then got credit for the fourth run of the game in the fifth when he poked another round tripper after missing another in the third when he was thrown out at home.

Halter assisted at the plate with two hits in three times at bat, struck out 20 of the 22 men he faced. Three men reached base, two on hits and one on a passed ball strike out.

Jim King was the losing hurler.

Potlatch faces Charleston at VFW stadium tomorrow night in a Black River league match.

Army's SPARTAN Interceptor Succeeds in First Test Flight

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The U.S. Army's SPARTAN long-range interceptor missile has successfully completed its first flight test.

The missile, part of the new SENTINEL anti-ballistic missile system, was fired at the Kwajalein Test Site in the Marshall Islands.

The first flight of the 55-foot long, three-stage SPARTAN was designed to test the weapon's response to guidance from the ground and its controllability in flight. It was guided in flight by nearby radar.

Designed to intercept "tercentennial ballistic missiles, SPARTAN will be deployed with the SPRINT, an extremely fast, short-range anti-missile missile, at SENTINEL sites throughout the United States.

SPARTAN flights will continue from Kwajalein Island while launching facilities for both SPARTAN and SPRINT are being built on Meck Island, 17 miles away.

In later tests, the missiles and their accompanying radar system will engage targets launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., 5,000 miles away.

SPARTAN, compared in the artist's sketch (left) with the height of a man, is being developed by the McDonnell-Douglas Corporation's Missiles and Space Division, Santa Monica, Calif.

THE LOOK FOR SUMMER is a pretty one. Organdy bands of lace spill from a fitted bodice with a ruffled low scoop neckline (left). The midi, a new look for evening, is featured in this design for David Styne by Eloise Curtis. Ole Borden bares the rib cage for summer in his collection for Rembrandt in the two-part costume (center) of canary yellow four-ply crepe. The bodice is cut on bathing suit lines with a halter top, the skirt gently gathered. Over it he throws a gently tailored jacket. The tailored look with touches of softness (right) is from the Mignon collection by Dorothy Farbo. In beige and white diagonally woven cotton, the ruffled silk organza blouse is tucked into an A-line skirt under a jacket with a hint of fit.

Ulcers: Billion $ Bellyache

By DICK KLEINER
West Coast Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—(NEA)—Ulcers rank just behind mothers-in-law and income taxes as subjects for gags, but a recent study shows that they are the nation's most expensive joke.

I. S. Blumenthal, a scientist at the Rand Corporation here, became interested in peptic ulcers about 10 years ago. That was when he found he had one. As he recuperated, he took the scientific approach and delved into the literature that had been published about ulcers.

He found there was little that had been written about the cost to the nation of the ulcer. So Blumenthal began working. He published a preliminary report in 1959 and recently updated it in a paper called "Social Cost of Peptic Ulcer."

It is surprising to learn that the ulcer is the fourth most expensive disease. Combining statistics for the cost of medical care, the loss of money due to disability, and the loss due to death, Blumenthal calculates that it costs the United States $7.8 billion annually for its ulcers and other malfunctions of the digestive system.

Only three categories—diseases of the circulatory system, injuries and neoplasms (cancer)—cost the nation more than does the ulcer.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

An unusual tribute as well as philatelic issuance comes in the form of a sheet of four stamps produced by the Federal Republic of Germany. The stamps honor the first anniversary of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's death and simultaneously pay homage to those men with whom he worked to rebuild West Germany. Sir Winston Churchill, Alcide de Gasperi and Robert Schuman, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

Dr. Adenauer appears on the 50 pfennig blue, Churchill on the 10 pf brown, De Gasperi on the 20 pf green and Schuman on the 30 pf red. Each stamp can be detached from the sheet and used for postal purposes.

Inscribed on the sheet in German are the words "The First Anniversary of the Death of Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer, April 19, 1968." Each individual stamp bears the name of the man whose portrait appears.

Dr. Adenauer, affectionately called "Der Alte" (The Old Man) was the first chancellor of the new Germany and largely responsible for its postwar reconstruction.

The sheet of West German stamps will be available at your local stamp dealer.

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien announced that the subject for this year's American Folklore stamp will be Daniel Boone. Details regarding the date and place of first-day sale as well as the design will be announced soon.

Maybe it was color TV, or perhaps the greater use of color by newspapers and magazines. Nevertheless, pressure is now being brought to have U.S. postage stamps reproduced in full color by newspapers and other publications. Color reproduction of U.S. stamps has been strictly forbidden. This is still in effect. But bills are now in Congress to permit color reproductions.

Congressman Thaddeus J. Dulski (D-N.Y.) who is chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, declared, "It is time for a change to permit the reproduction of the U.S. stamps in their true colors."

To prove his point he exhibited a publication that reproduced John F. Kennedy stamps issued by 56 nations. 55 in color and, ironically, the only one not in color by the United States.

Barbados commemorated the 20th anniversary of the Economic Commission for Latin America by issuing a special 15 cent stamp featuring the United Nations Building in Santiago, Chile. The Economic Commission for Latin America was set up in February 1948 and is one of four regional organizations established by the U.N. for assisting the governments of the regions to promote their economic development and raise the standard of living of their peoples.

ROMANTIC—Designer Bill Atkinson creates a cool and fresh look for summer, lavishes it with row after row of eyelet embroidered cotton. For Glen of Michigan.

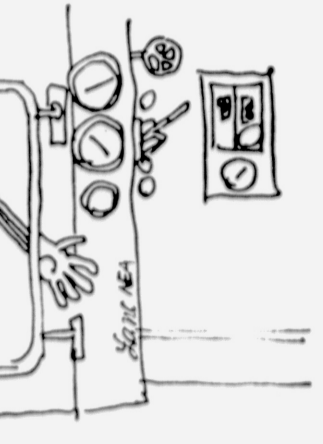

The ulcer is more and more frequently a killer, too. Blumenthal's statistics show that 11,900 people died from peptic ulcers in 1963—the last year for which accurate figures are available—and he projects that to a probable 12,500 using 1965 population figures.

He also cites statistics as showing that there is "an apparent increase of more than 10 per cent in the death rate due to ulcer."

The number of ulcer sufferers in our society also is on the increase. Blumenthal's figures indicate that 3.5 million people are annually afflicted, which breaks down to 19 people in every 1,000.

He says that the increase is due to two causes—first, of course, the increase in total population but, even more significant, a rise in prevalence. He makes no attempt to ascribe a motive to that fact.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY President Grayson Kirk received the backing of the school's board of trustees in refusing amnesty for students who seized five buildings on the campus.

Men more than women—at a ratio of 2.8 to 1—suffer from ulcers. And the 40s are the most frequently affected for men, and the 50s for women.

But it is the cost in dollars that is most staggering. Blumenthal cites figures to show that more than 58,000 work years are lost annually by male workers. Added to the loss due to death and the loss due to medical care, this adds up to a hefty national bill.

Ann Landers

There's No Accounting
For Human Behavior

Dear Ann Landers: Are people crazier today than at any time in the history of man? I believe the answer is "yes." The item I just read in the newspaper is pretty good evidence.

It seems a Mrs. P. Haverland of Charleston, West Virginia has nothing better to do with her time than to try to break the record for being buried alive. The record is held by some fleabrain who lay in an underground casket for 75 days. Mrs. Haverland is sure she can set a new record.

I would like to suggest that anyone who has 75 days to blow ought to go to some hospital and volunteer to break a record visiting the sick or writing letters for the disabled or just cheering up the lonely people in the nursing homes. Do you agree, Ann? -- CHICAGO READER

Dear Chicago: People usually enjoy doing what they do best. Perhaps this is Mrs. Haverland's greatest talent.

Dear Ann Landers: Paul and I are married in September. Paul comes from a large family and so do I. We were both born and raised in this city and have a great many friends. Since my folks can't afford to give me a big wedding we have decided to have a simple ceremony with only the immediate family present.

Now the problem: People we know have been asking us if they can come to the wedding. I think it's poor manners to fish for an invitation, but these folks feel very friendly and they don't see it that way.

I've tried to be evasive and noncommittal but it's getting more difficult all the time. What do you suggest? -- ON THE SPOT BRIDE

Dear Bride: Be direct and honest. Say, "I wish we could invite all our dear friends to the wedding but it isn't possible." Then you can add, "We hope you'll come to see us when we're settled" -- if you WANT them to, that is.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter. A million women will love you.

Why don't the mothers of America teach their children to drive when they go to someone's home for dinner NOT to ask for a third helping of meat or a second dessert? A family of eight (six kids) came to dinner the last night and I was a nervous wreck from the beginning of the meal to the end. There were 12 at our table including some important business associates of mine.

Those kids made a nervous wreck out of me with "more meat, please," even before the adults had a chance to finish their portions. I

A family of eight (six kids) came to dinner the last night and I was a nervous wreck from the beginning of the meal to the end. There were 12 at our table including some important business associates of mine.

TOO GOOD

ATWOOD, Tenn. (AP) -- This town of 750 was mighty proud of the new $85,000 water system -- but then the pumps wouldn't work.

An engineer discovered that the water was so pure it wouldn't conduct the electricity necessary to make the pumps go.

New and special electrodes were installed, and now the folks have all the pure water they need.

The "year of confusion" was when Julius Caesar added the calendar and made 46 B.C. 15 months long.

"this weedkiller controls more weeds than any other."

Alanap-Plus effectively controls more different types of annual grasses and broadleaf weeds. And it kills them while they germinate. Available in liquid or granular form for band or broadcast treatment.

PETER ARNETT, The Associated Press

Winner of the 1968 Sigma Delta Chi Award for Foreign Correspondence

Peter Arnett has seen more action in Vietnam than most of the soldiers fighting the war. Since 1962 he has shared hardships and dangers with the troops to chronicle innumerable battles. He is a legend among the fighting men he accompanies.

Arnett is typical of the corps of veterans on AP's Vietnam staff. They report and analyze battles. And years of covering this complex war have given them a deep knowledge of the country, its politics and its people. They know where to probe beneath the surface for the stories and interpretive articles readers look for in newspapers today.

Peter Arnett now adds the coveted Sigma Delta Chi medalion to his Pulitzer Prize (1966) and other honors for outstanding coverage of the most difficult story in the world today. Peter Arnett's stories appear in...

President George Washington issued the first neutrality proclamation when he declared, in 1793, a hands-off policy in the wars of the French Revolution.

"Grimes, there's been a report that some of the men in your unit pulled the triggers of their unloaded rifles and shouted 'BANG'!"

Millin Campaigns In Area

Russell Millin, Kansas City, Democratic candidate for attorney general, began a week of campaigning Monday in Southeast Missouri. He will continue meeting voters with his family through Saturday.

Millin, whose record in the U. S. attorney's office for Western Missouri earned him a title of "nation's outstanding crime fighter", plans to visit all of the major towns and cities in the area.

Millin said: "The families of rural Missouri are the backbone of our state. No other group of citizens have a greater respect for law and order. None has a greater contribution to make my efforts to gain the Democratic nomination for Attorney General. I need the support of rural Missouri Democrats so we can take firm action against the wave of lawlessness now gripping our state."

Millin noted that his opponent, "Attorney General Anderson has admitted using state funds for campaign activities, official offices for political purposes and using state personnel as his own political staff."

The Kansas Citian declared, "In addition, every decent Missourian was shocked to learn that the Attorney General employed a known police character with more than twenty arrests in this the most sensitive law enforcement office in our state. Missouri and the Democratic Party can no longer tolerate this gross disrespect for the law from our chief legal officer."

Millin will be accompanied by his wife Maxine and daughter Chris during the early part of the week's activities. When school closes later in the week he will be joined by daughters Jennifer and Carolyn. A son David is serving with the armed forces in Vietnam.

Democrats throughout the state are enthusiastic about the 47-year old candidate for Attorney General. He has already gained the support and endorsement of the prestigious Jackson County Committee for County Progress headed by Judge Charles E. Curry.

In announcing the CCP endorsement Judge Curry said: "No candidate possesses the essential qualities of integrity, dedication to justice and a proven ability to carry out imaginative crime fighting programs more than Russ Millin. We urge all Democrats interested in restoring law and order to our state to support this outstanding public servant."

Millin has announced several new programs for "improving the quality and effectiveness of our law enforcement through the Missouri Attorney General's Office."

These include an 'advocate of law' to serve as coordinator of school and community educational programs; mobilization of lawyers of the state to revise and improve our laws and to deal with the social problems of the cities by Witt, Tip Clark, Hoots Fairless, James Waldo, Howard Pearson and supportive services to local law enforcement officials. The campaign theme of the vigorous candidate for Attorney General is 'Make the Law Triumph'.

He sums up the meaning of this phrase: "My campaign has a simple but profound theme - to make the law triumph. Within this simple idea is found the majesty and the durability of our democratic nation."

"It is an echo of the Constitution and Bill of Rights. It is an awesome summing up of the very heart and soul of this nation. It is a reflection of our people's conscience which has welded us together as a nation against all enemies."

"Make the law triumph - and we need not fear the angry and fear-ridden voices that attack the walls of our city."

"Make the law triumph and we will be raising the sights of every man to the ideals that unite us. We will proclaim to the world that we are once again united in a course of action to reach an impossible dream - a dream of full equality for all, dignity for every man - with the law as our guide and mentor. For the meaning of America is the will of the people codified into law. This is what this nation is all about."
